but, for example, in 2006 there were 341 civil processes and 486 administrative processes initiated in the city. Therefore the average number of violations per resident is very high. Truth be told though, most of these criminal cases were initiated against tourists.

Trains in Moscow are the most frequent in the world, coming every 1.5minutes after the last one. More than 9 million passengers use the subway every day, thats more than London and New York subways combined!

<h2>Istanbul</h2>
The only city in the world that connects two continents: Asia and Europe.

<h2>Tokyo</h2>
There is a tower in Tokyo called, "Tokyo tower", which is a model of the Eiffel tower. It gets a paintjob every 5 years with over 7000gallons of water.

<h2>Paris</h2>
In the whole of Paris, there is only one stop sign.

<h2>Moscow</h2>
The Krelin was actually built by the Italians, which were called again, when the walls needed repairs.
